JTS RECEIVES FRESNO COMPACT BUSINESS-SCHOOL PARTNERSHIP AWARD

Fresno, CA – April 11, 2012 – JTS (Johanson Transportation Service), a leading third-party supply chain solutions provider, has been honored by the Fresno Compact with the Business-School Partnership Award for establishing and sustaining exceptional partnerships with education.

On March 7, 2012, the Fresno Compact honored JTS and nine other businesses at the Annual Shareholders' Luncheon. JTS was nominated by Dr. Robert Harper, Dean of the Craig School of Business at California State University, Fresno.

JTS was nominated for its support and leadership in the educational community, giving their time, money, expertise and inspiration to local students. JTS has been mentoring students in the Craig School of Business at California State University, Fresno for decades. President Larry Johanson, founder Dick Johanson and JTS staff have been guest speakers, board members and fundraiser organizers in the community. They've been indispensable to the Craig School in support and leadership.

JTS has also been a financial supporter of the Save Mart Center, The Bulldog Foundation, President's Circle for Excellence, Pete Mehas Professorship in Education, the Maddy Institute, Ag One Foundation, Institute for Family Business, and the Alumni and Friends of the Craig School of Business.

A graduate of the Craig School of Business, President Larry Johanson values the opportunity to give back to his alma mater. For businesses thinking about getting involved in education, President Larry Johanson said, "All you have to do is meet a student or two and you'll be hooked. The students are really inspiring. When we're graduating really good, quality students it helps our community, it helps our businesses, and everybody wins."
